1 Defendants Schiff Nutrition International, Inc. and Schiff Nutrition Group, 2 Inc. (collectively, “Schiff”) submit the following memorandum in response to the 3 objections filed by Truth in Advertising, Inc. (“TINA”) and the American 4 Association of Retired Persons (“AARP”), Ashley Hammack, Joan Smallwood and 5 Charles Thompson.

6 I. INTRODUCTION

7 Schiff understands that Class Counsel are responding in detail to the 8 objections lodged to the proposed Settlement. As such, Schiff does not wish to 9 burden the Court with duplicative briefing. There are certain matters, however, 10 that Schiff believes warrant a separate response, and Schiff responds below to 11 those portions of the few objections that have been lodged.

12 As detailed below, the objections made are largely based on incorrect 13 standards, a misunderstanding of the proposed Settlement and very little analysis 14 beyond conclusory statements. When the appropriate standards are applied to the 15 actual facts of this case, however, it becomes clear that the proposed Settlement is 16 fair, reasonable and adequate and in the best interest of the Settlement Class.
17 Indeed, the three members of the Settlement Class who filed objections represent a 18 miniscule portion of the Settlement Class as a whole, and the fact that there is an 19 exceedingly low rate of objections and opt-outs coupled with the fact that none of 20 the objectors who opposed the Pearson settlement have filed objections only 21 further confirm the fairness, reasonableness and adequacy of the Settlement.<sup>1</sup>

22 II. DISCUSSION

23 For the reasons discussed herein as well as those set forth in the submission 24 by Plaintiffs, Schiff respectfully requests that the objections to Final Approval of 25 the Settlement be overruled and that the Court enter an order granting final 26 <sup>1</sup> Unless otherwise defined herein, capitalized terms have the meaning ascribed to 27 them in the Second Amended Settlement Agreement. See Second Am. Settlement 28 Agmt. (Dkt. #141-2). In addition, unless stated otherwise, all emphasis is supplied and all internal citations and quotations are omitted from any quoted material.

1 approval of the Second Amended Settlement Agreement. See disc. infra at 2-13.

2 A. Ms. Hammack’s Objection To The Monetary Relief In The Settlement Is 3 Primarily Based Upon A Misstatement Of The Standard For Evaluating 4 Whether The Settlement Is Fair, Reasonable And Adequate

5 Ms. Hammack contends, without any analysis or citation to authority, that 6 the Settlement is “unfair, unreasonable, and inadequate,” because it does not 7 “disgorge [Schiff] of its ill-gotten profits.” Hammack Objection (Dkt. #159) at 2.
 8 Ms. Hammack’s objection, however, misses the mark on several fronts. See disc.
 9 infra at 2-8.<sup>2</sup>

10 1. Ms. Hammack’s Objection Is Based On An Incorrect Standard

11 Ms. Hammack’s argument is essentially based on an incorrect standard. See 12 Hammack Objection (Dkt. #159) at 2. In evaluating whether a settlement is fair, 13 reasonable and adequate within the meaning of Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(e), a court is not 14 reaching “any ultimate conclusions on the contested issues of fact and law which 15 underlie the merits of the dispute, nor is” it judging the proposed settlement 16 “against a hypothetical or speculative measure of what might have been achieved 17 by the negotiators.” Dennis v. Kellogg, 2013 WL 6055326, at *2 (S.D. Cal. 2013); 18 see also Lane v. Facebook, 696 F.3d 811, 819 (9th Cir. 2012) (“[T]he question 19 whether a settlement is fundamentally fair within the meaning of Rule 23(e) is 20 different from the question whether the settlement is perfect in the estimation of 21 the reviewing court.”). Instead, courts addressing the issue of final approval are to 22 consider the following factors:

23 (1) the strength of the plaintiff’s case; (2) the risk, expense, 24 complexity, and likely duration of further litigation; (3) the risk of 25 maintaining class action status throughout the trial; (4) the amount

26 <sup>2</sup> Ms. Hammack also contends that the Settlement is not fair, reasonable or 27 adequate, because part of the Settlement may be paid for by an insurance policy.
 28 See Hammack Objection (Dkt. #159) at 2. Tellingly, Ms. Hammack cites no authority for this proposition. See id. But see In re Nutella, 589 F. App’x 53, 56 (3d Cir. 2014) (affirming approval of settlement in which certain amounts would be paid by an insurer). Indeed, “the sole purpose of commercial general liability insurance is to provide coverage for injuries that occur to the public-at-large.”
Amerisure v. Orange & Blue, 545 F. App’x 851, 855 (11th Cir. 2013).

1 offered in settlement; (5) the extent of discovery completed and the 2 stage of the proceedings; (6) the experience and views of counsel; (7) the presence of a governmental participant; and (8) the reaction of the class members to the proposed settlement.

3 Aboudi v. T-Mobile, 2015 WL 4923602, at *4 (S.D. Cal. 2015).

4 The submission by Ms. Hammack, however, contains no discussion of the 5 merits of Plaintiffs' claims and no discussion of the complexity and expense of 6 litigation. See Hammack Objection (Dkt. #159) at passim. Instead, Ms. Hammack 7 merely states in a conclusory fashion that any settlement that does not disgorge
 8 Schiff of all profits supposedly must be inadequate. See id. at 2. As discussed 9 below, however, when the merits of Plaintiffs' claims, the complexity and expense 10 of litigation and the relief that Settlement Class Members are expected to receive 11 are all considered, there is no doubt that the Settlement is fair, reasonable and 12 adequate within the meaning of governing law. See disc. infra at 3-8.<sup>3</sup>

13 2. The Merits Of Plaintiffs' Claims And The Complexity And Expense 14 Of Litigation Balanced Against The Terms Of The Settlement Fully 15 Demonstrate That The Settlement Is Fair, Reasonable And Adequate

16 The monetary relief offered in the proposed Settlement is more than 17 reasonable in light of the difficulty that Plaintiffs and members of the Settlement 18 Class would otherwise have in maintaining their claims. See, e.g., In re Mego, 213 19 F.3d 454, 459 (9th Cir. 2000) (noting that the amount offered in settlement should 20 be considered in light of the strength of the plaintiff's case). To begin with, 21 Plaintiffs' substantive claims suffer from material weaknesses that undermine their 22 ability to recover. See disc. infra at 3-6. Indeed, in a similar case pending in the 23 Northern District of Illinois (i.e., Pearson v. NBTY), Judge James B. Zagel noted

24 _____
 25 <sup>3</sup> Ms. Smallwood similarly fails to consider any of these issues in her objection, 26 which essentially amounts to a belief that she is owed more because one of the 27 Covered Products has purportedly caused her to incur medical expenses. See 28 Smallwood Objection (Dkt. #161). Ms. Smallwood, however, provides no information or explanation whatsoever to support her otherwise bald assertion.
See id. Because Ms. Smallwood's concern appears to be sui generis, Schiff would be willing to allow her to belatedly opt-out of the Settlement Class in order to allow her to preserve whatever claims she may believe she has (if any).

1 that there were “non-trivial potential obstacles to Plaintiffs’ prevailing on the 2 merits.” Pearson v. NBTY, 2014 WL 30676, at *3 (N.D. Ill. 2014).<sup>4</sup>

3 For example, Plaintiffs have essentially brought false advertising claims, and 4 as such, they would have the burden of proving that Schiff made false or 5 misleading statements. See, e.g., National Council Against Health Fraud v. King 6 Bio, 107 Cal. App. 4th 1336, 1344 (2d Dist. 2003) (“When they bring [false 7 advertising claims], both private persons and prosecuting authorities bear the 8 burden of proving the advertising claims to be false or misleading.”); Third Am.
9 Compl. (Dkt. #33-1) at ¶¶ 51-69. Plaintiffs, however, could not simply rely upon 10 allegations that Schiff did not have sufficient support for its statements, as 11 Plaintiffs would actually have to prove the statements were false. See, e.g., Fraker 12 v. Bayer, 2009 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 125633, at *22-23 (E.D. Cal. 2009) (“If Plaintiff
13 is going to maintain an action against Defendant for false or misleading 14 advertising, then Plaintiff will be required to adduce evidence sufficient to present 15 to a jury to show that Defendant’s advertising claims with respect to Product are 16 actually false; not simply that they are not backed up by scientific evidence.”).
17 Given that Schiff has produced considerable evidence supporting its 18 representations, however, and both sides have produced significant expert analysis 19 and testimony discussing the strengths and limitations of the studies on which both 20 sides rely, Plaintiffs would most certainly face an uphill battle on this front. See, 21 e.g., Haskell v. Time, 965 F. Supp. 1398, 1407 (E.D. Cal. 1997) (“Furthermore, 22 anecdotal evidence alone is insufficient to prove that the public is likely to be 23 misled. . . . to prevail, plaintiff must demonstrate by extrinsic evidence, such as

24 <sup>4</sup> As this Court is aware, the Seventh Circuit reversed Judge Zagel’s order of final 25 approval in Pearson, primarily taking issue with the award of attorneys’ fees and 26 costs relative to what the class had recovered. See Pearson v. NBTY, 772 F.3d 27 778, 780-85 (7th Cir. 2014). Notably, however, the Seventh Circuit did not disrupt 28 the district court’s ruling that the compensation offered to the class was otherwise fair, reasonable and adequate. See id. at passim. Nor did the Seventh Circuit disagree with Judge Zagel’s conclusion that the class would face “non-trivial” obstacles in actually recovering on their claims. See id.

1 consumer survey evidence, that the challenged statements tend to mislead 2 consumers.”).

3       Moreover, Plaintiffs would have great difficulty obtaining and maintaining 4 class certification for the purposes of trial, as this case would raise significant 5 manageability concerns if it were tried on a class basis. See Amchem v. Windsor, 6 521 U.S. 591, 620 (1997) (“Confronted with a request for settlement-only class 7 certification, a district court need not inquire whether the case, if tried, would 8 present intractable management problems[.]”). By way of example, individual 9 members of the Settlement Class would each have to demonstrate that they viewed 10 and relied upon Schiff’s marketing statements as opposed to anecdotal evidence 11 from friends or recommendations from their doctors, among other things. See, 12 e.g., Davis-Miller v. Automobile Club of Southern California, 201 Cal. App. 4th 13 106, 117 (2d Dist. 2011) (individual hearings would be required to determine 14 whether any allegedly false advertising was material to class members’ purchasing 15 decisions); Thorogood v. Sears, 547 F.3d 742, 747 (7th Cir. 2008) (trial in a 16 consumer fraud case alleging that defendant falsely advertised its dryers as having 17 a “stainless steel drum” would require individual hearings to determine, among 18 other things, whether that statement had an effect on the consumers’ decision to 19 purchase the dryer).

20       Last but not least, litigation of this matter would be expensive, risky and 21 complicated, weighing in favor of settlement. See, e.g., Pearson, 2014 WL 30676, 22 at *3; In re Mego, 213 F.3d at 459. Absent settlement, there would likely be 23 several years of litigation, including class certification briefing, trial and multiple 24 appeals, and the outcome for Plaintiffs and the Settlement Class is by no means 25 certain. See disc. supra at 3-5. In such circumstances, however, settlement is 26 favored. See, e.g., In re DJ Orthopedics, 2004 WL 1445101, at *3 (S.D. Cal. 2004) 27 (“The court agrees with Plaintiffs’ assessment of the risks posed by trying the 28 instant action, namely that even though the case may have survived, in part, a

1 motion to dismiss, there are substantial risks to recovery, and settlement may be a 2 more favorable path because the ultimate results of continued litigation are both 3 uncertain and costly.”).

4 3. Settlement Class Members Who Filed A Claim Are Likely 5 To Be Fully Compensated (Or More) For Their Purchases

6 Based upon a preliminary accounting of the Settlement Fund, it appears that 7 there will be over $3,290,000 available to distribute to those members of the 8 Settlement Class who file claims for reimbursement.<sup>5</sup> See Declaration of Eric 9 Robin (“Robin Decl.”), Ex. A, at ¶¶ 21, 23; disc. infra at 6-8.<sup>6</sup> As of the date of 10 this filing, approximately 40,167 claim forms have been filed, representing 11 approximately $431,583 of the Settlement Fund. See Robin Decl., Ex. A, at ¶ 21.
 12 Because the total of the Cash Awards does not exceed the amount available in the 13 Settlement Fund to pay claims, however, Settlement Class Members who 14 submitted claims with Adequate Proof of Purchase will receive increased awards 15 triple of what they were otherwise entitled, and Settlement Class Members who 16 submitted claims without proof of purchase will receive increased awards double 17 of what they were otherwise entitled. See Second Am. Settlement Agmt. (Dkt.
 18 #141-2) at § IV, ¶ D(i). In other words, Settlement Class Members who filed 19 claims with Adequate Proof of Purchase will receive $30 per Covered Product and 20 those without Adequate Proof of Purchase will receive $6 per Covered Product.
 21 See id. And even after these increased awards, approximately $2,000,000 will 22 remain in the Settlement Fund, which amount will be distributed to the Settlement

23 _____
 24 <sup>5</sup> This accounting assumes that the Court awards Class Counsel the full amount of 25 Attorneys’ Fees and Costs that they have requested, that notice and administration 26 is approximately $920,000, that no additional Valid Claims come to the Parties’ 27 attention and that all claims that were filed before the Claim Deadline are Valid 28 Claims. See Robin Decl., Ex. A, at ¶¶ 21, 23.

<sup>6</sup> Because Class Counsel is submitting the Declaration of Eric Robins, with all exhibits thereto, as an attachment to Plaintiffs’ response to the objections to Final Approval of the Settlement, the Robins Declaration attached as Exhibit A hereto is being submitted without exhibits.

1 Class Members who filed valid claims pro rata, increasing the award for each 2 Covered Product by approximately $16. See id. As such, each Settlement Class 3 Member who filed a Valid Claim that included Adequate Proof of Purchase will 4 receive approximately $46 per Covered Product, and those that filed a claim 5 without such proof will receive approximately $22 per Covered Product. See disc.
6 supra at 6-7.

7 As detailed by Schiff in a prior submission, the price of the Covered 8 Products can vary from as little as $9.95 to as much as $32.99 with the majority of 9 the products retailing for $20.00 or less. See Defs.’ Mem. in Supp. of Mot. for 10 Preliminary Approval (Dkt. #108) at 4 & Ex. A. Thus, Settlement Class Members 11 who submitted Valid Claims with Adequate Proof of Purchase will be more than 12 fully compensated for their purchases. See id.; disc. supra at 6-7. Indeed, 13 members of the Settlement Class will in some cases receive more than double their 14 original purchase price. See, e.g., Smallwood Objection (Dkt. # 161) (attaching 15 proof of purchase for Move Free Triple at a cost of $18.39). And most Settlement 16 Class Members who submitted claims without Adequate Proof of Purchase are 17 likely to receive full compensation. See Defs.’ Mem. in Supp. of Mot. for 18 Preliminary Approval (Dkt. #108) at 4 & Ex. A at 6, 8, 11-13 (showing several 19 products with purchase prices of $15.00 and under).

20 Given that Settlement Class Members who filed Valid Claims are very likely 21 to be fully compensated under the Settlement, there can be no legitimate dispute 22 that the Settlement provides fair, reasonable and adequate compensation to 23 Settlement Class Members. See, e.g., Rodriguez v. West Publishing, 563 F.3d 948, 24 964 (9th Cir. 2009) (district court did not abuse its discretion in approving 25 settlement fund that was between 15% and 30% of the class’s potential recovery); 26 In re Mego, 213 F.3d at 459 (affirming approval of a settlement where the amount 27 was one-sixth of the potential recovery); Linney v. Cellular Alaska, 151 F.3d 1234, 28 1242 (9th Cir. 1998) (affirming approval of a settlement that would compensate the 1 class for only a percentage of their claimed damages). Moreover, and despite the 2 claims of TINA and AARP, it is clear that the Settlement set forth in the Second 3 Amended Settlement Agreement has not reduced the amount made available to the 4 Settlement Class but, instead, has increased that amount. Compare disc. supra at 6-5 7, with Supplemental Brief (Dkt. #144) at 3 (contending that the Second Amended 6 Settlement Agreement reduced the amount made available to the Settlement Class) 7 and Settlement Agmt. Redline (Dkt. #141-1) at p.14 (noting that the Amended 8 Settlement Agreement only guaranteed $2,000,000 payment to the Settlement 9 Class).

10 Because Ms. Hammack's objection fails to consider the merits of Plaintiffs' 11 claims, the complexity and expense of litigation and the relief that Settlement Class 12 Members are expected to receive, her objection should likewise be overruled. See 13 disc. supra at 2-8.<sup>7</sup>

 15 16 <sup>7</sup> Mr. Thompson contends that allowing Settlement Class Members who are able to 17 submit Adequate Proof of Purchase to claim-in for a higher amount than those 18 Settlement Class Members who are unable to submit such proof is "unfair to both 19 classes." See Thompson Objection (Dkt. #161) at 4. Notably, however, the only 20 support that Mr. Thompson cites for his argument (i.e., California v. Levi, 41 Cal.
 21 3d 460 (1986)), does not actually stand for the proposition that asking consumer to 22 provide proof of purchase is "unreasonable." See id. Instead, that decision (which 23 is applying a different legal standard for final approval and is obviously not binding 24 on this Court) discusses the various ways in which residual funds may be 25 distributed and merely notes that distributing funds in class actions can be difficult:

22 Damage distribution . . . poses special problems in consumer class 23 actions. Often, proof of individual damages by competent evidence is 24 not feasible. Each individual's recovery may be too small to make 25 traditional methods of proof worthwhile. In addition, consumers are 26 not likely to retain records of small purchases for long periods of time.

25 Levi, 41 Cal. 3d at 471-72. Nowhere in Levi, however, does the California 26 Supreme Court suggest that it is unreasonable to allow those who actually have 27 retained such proof to be compensated at a higher rate than those who have not.
 28 See id. at passim. And capping the amount that those without adequate proof of purchase may claim is important to deterring fraudulent claims, as this Court noted at the July 10, 2014 hearing. See, e.g., In re Lawnmower Engine Horsepower, 733 F. Supp. 2d 997, 1010 (E.D. Wis. 2010) (noting that it was important for the settlement to have a mechanism to protect against potential fraudulent claims).

1                   B. The Objections Of Ms. Hammack And TINA And AARP
 2                   To The Proposed Injunction Both Misrepresent The 3                   Injunction As Well As The Law

4                   Plaintiffs and their counsel have addressed at length the proposed injunction 5 included in the Settlement. See, e.g., Pls.’ Mem. in Supp. of Mot. for Final 6 Approval (Dkt. #153-1) at 14-20; Pls.’ Supp. Mem. in Supp. of Mot. for 7 Preliminary Approval (Dkt. #107) at 4-13; Pls.’ Mem. in Supp. of Mot. for 8 Preliminary Approval (Dkt. #81-1) at 5-6, 20. Accordingly, Schiff does not wish 9 to burden the Court with duplicative briefing and instead will simply address 10 certain inaccuracies in the objections of Ms. Hammack and TINA and AARP 11 regarding the injunction as well as governing law.<sup>8</sup> See disc. infra at 9-12.

12                   1. Schiff May Not Lift The Injunction At Any 13                   Time By Simply Petitioning The Court

14                   Ms. Hammack contends that the injunction is “illusory,” because Schiff 15 supposedly “can resume its past deceptive practices at any time by petitioning the 16 court.” Hammack Objection (Dkt. #159) at 2. This, however, is simply not correct.

16 <sup>8</sup> On or about March 11, 2015, TINA and AARP sought and were granted 17 permission to file an amicus brief in opposition to the previously-proposed First 18 Amended Settlement Agreement. See Brief of Amici Curiae (Dkt. #136); Order 19 Granting Mot. for Leave to File Amicus Brief (Dkt. #135). Subsequently, the 20 Parties amended the settlement agreement and sought preliminary approval of the 21 Second Amended Settlement Agreement. See Joint Motion Seeking Approval of 22 Mod. to Amended Settlement Agreement (Dkt. #141). After a hearing on May 15, 23 2015, the Court granted preliminary approval of the Second Amended Settlement 24 Agreement. See Order re: Joint Mot. for Approval of Mod. to Amended 25 Settlement Agreement (Dkt. #147). Prior to the May 15, 2015 hearing, TINA and 26 AARP filed a supplemental brief purporting to object to final approval. See 27 Supplemental Brief (Dkt. #144). The Court, however, deemed their objection 28 premature, as the Settlement had not yet received preliminary approval. See May 15, 2015 Hr’g Tr. (Dkt. #163) at 3. TINA and AARP, however, did not file any objection to Plaintiffs’ request for final approval of the Second Amended Settlement Agreement or seek leave to appear at the hearing. Accordingly, it is unclear whether the objection has been withdrawn. In any event, however, the objection by TINA and AARP (neither of which are members of the Settlement Class) is largely duplicative of other objections, and therefore, we believe that any objection they may have had has been amply addressed in the Parties’ briefing.
See Supplemental Brief (Dkt. #144); Pls.’ Response to Objection at passim; disc. supra at 2-8 (discussing the monetary relief to the class); disc. infra at 9-12 (discussing the injunction). Nevertheless, we briefly address below issues previously raised by TINA and AARP out of an abundance of caution. See disc.
infra at 9-12.

1 Schiff may only request a lifting of the injunction if it becomes aware of “an 2 independent, well-conducted, published clinical trial substantiating” the challenged 3 statements. See Second Am. Settlement Agmt. (Dkt. #141-2) at § IV, ¶ E(iv). In 4 other words, the injunction may only be lifted if Class Counsel and/or the Court 5 agree that the referenced statements are supported by science and therefore not 6 “deceptive.” See disc. supra at 9-10; Freeman v. Time, 68 F.3d 285, 289-90 (9th 7 Cir. 1995) (holding consumers have an obligation to review packaging as a whole 8 and rejecting the argument that “reasonable” consumers can selectively review 9 challenged advertising and ignore additional relevant information).

10 2. TINA And AARP Misconstrue The 11 Seventh Circuit’s Decision In Pearson

12 TINA and AARP contend that the Seventh Circuit previously rejected an 13 injunction similar to the one at issue in this Settlement. See Brief of Amici Curiae 14 (Dkt. #136) at 5; see also Pearson, 772 F.3d at 785. The Seventh Circuit did not, 15 however, reject the settlement in Pearson because of the injunction. See Brief of 16 Amici Curiae (Dkt. #136) at 5; see also Pearson, 772 F.3d at passim.

17 Instead, in reversing Judge Zagel’s order of final approval, the Seventh 18 Circuit primarily took issue with the award of attorneys’ fees and costs relative to 19 what the class had recovered. See Pearson, 772 F.3d at 780-85. More specifically, 20 the Seventh Circuit held in Pearson that when awarding fees in a class settlement, 21 courts in the Seventh Circuit should consider “the ratio of (1) the fee to (2) the fee 22 plus what the class members received,” not simply what is made available to the 23 class. See id. at 781, 783. Indeed, the Seventh Circuit held that Judge Zagel was 24 correct in excluding the injunctive relief and cy pres award from that ratio, 25 affirming Judge Zagel’s ruling that the injunction could not be valued. See id. at 26 781. Because the injunction was not valued as part of the settlement in the first 27 instance, the Seventh Circuit could not and did not “reject” it. See id. at 780-85.

28

1           3. TINA And AARP's Contention That The Court Should Consider 2           The Injunctive Relief In Isolation To The Remainder Of The 3           Settlement Is Based Upon An Incorrect Standard Of Law

4           TINA and AARP contend that “the entire settlement should be rejected 5 because the injunctive relief is inadequate.” See Supplemental Brief (Dkt. #144) at 6 3 n.1. Governing law in the Ninth Circuit, however, holds that in evaluating 7 whether a settlement is fair, reasonable and adequate within the meaning of Fed. R.
8 Civ. P. 23(e), the Court “must evaluate the fairness of a settlement as a whole, 9 rather than assessing its individual components.” Lane, 696 F.3d at 818-19. As 10 such, the injunctive relief must be considered in conjunction with the monetary 11 relief offered to the Settlement Class. See id. Moreover, both of those components 12 must be considered in light of factors such as the strength of Plaintiffs’ case and 13 the risk and expense of further litigation, as discussed above. See id. at 819; disc.
14 supra at 2-8.

15           TINA and AARP’s objection, however, considers none of these issues. See 16 Brief of Amici Curiae (Dkt. #136) at passim; Supplemental Brief (Dkt. #144) at 17 passim. But as discussed above, there are “non-trivial potential obstacles to 18 Plaintiffs’ prevailing on the merits.” Pearson, 2014 WL 30676, at *3; disc. supra 19 at 3-6. In fact, this is all the more true when considering Plaintiffs’ request for 20 injunctive relief. See Third Am. Compl. (Dkt. #33-1) at Prayer for Relief. “[A] 21 plaintiff seeking equitable relief must . . . demonstrate a likelihood of future injury.
22 This requires a showing that plaintiff is realistically threatened by a repetition of 23 the violation.” Wang v. OCZ Tech. Group, 276 F.R.D. 618, 626 (N.D. Cal. 2011) (emphasis in original).

24           Plaintiffs and members of the Settlement Class who did not receive any 25 benefits from the Covered Products, however, are highly unlikely to continue to 26 purchase those products and therefore would be unable to demonstrate a threat of 27 future injury. See, e.g., Defs.’ Mem. in Supp. of Mot. for Preliminary Approval 28 (Dkt. #108) at Ex. B at 1-3 (reviews on Amazon.com indicating that dissatisfied

1 customers did not purchase more than one or two bottles of the products); id. at 6 2 (reviews on Walmart website indicating that dissatisfied customers would not 3 continue the product and would return it); id. at 7-8 (reviews on drugstore.com 4 indicating that customers who did not feel relief after a few weeks would not 5 repurchase); id. at 13 (reviews on Costco website indicating that the customers 6 who did not find joint relief from the product would not continue to buy that 7 product). Accordingly, the strength of Plaintiffs' request for an injunction is 8 certainly questionable. See, e.g., Wang, 276 F.R.D. at 626.

9 In light of the obstacles that Plaintiffs and the Settlement Class would likely 10 face in obtaining any relief whatsoever, including injunctive relief, and in light of 11 the material benefits that the Settlement provides, the objection of TINA and 12 AARP should be overruled. See, e.g., Pls.' Mem. in Supp. of Mot. for Final 13 Approval (Dkt. #153-1) at 14-20; Pls.' Supp. Mem. in Supp. of Mot. for 14 Preliminary Approval (Dkt. #107) at 4-13; disc. supra at 9-12.

15 C. Ms. Hammack's Objection To The Claims Process
16 Is Based Upon A Misunderstanding Of That Process

17 Ms. Hammack also objects to the Settlement on the grounds that the claims 18 process is "inadequate," purportedly because, in her belief, Claim Forms with 19 deficiencies will be "rejected outright" and "without providing claimants with an 20 opportunity to cure or explain such deficiencies." Hammack Objection (Dkt. #159) 21 at 3. Ms. Hammack's objection, however, is based upon a misunderstanding of and 22 erroneous assumptions regarding the claims process. See disc. infra at 12-13.

23 At this time, no claims have either been accepted or rejected. See Robin 24 Decl., Ex. A, at ¶ 22. Instead, the Settlement Administrator appointed by the Court 25 (i.e., KCC) has received all Claim Forms and logged them in its system. See id.
26 Once Final Approval is granted, KCC will evaluate all claims and provide a list to 27 Class Counsel and Defendants' Counsel of Valid Claims as well as any claims that 28 may have any deficiencies. See id. KCC and counsel for the Parties will then 1 confer regarding the best manner in which to address the deficient claims, which 2 generally involves sending notice to the Settlement Class Member of the 3 deficiency and allowing him or her a period of time in which to cure that 4 deficiency. See id. A claim will only be denied for a deficiency, however, after 5 the Settlement Class Member has had an opportunity to correct the claim. See id.

6 And given that the Parties and KCC intend to do exactly what Ms. Hammack has 7 requested, her objection should be overruled. See Hammack Objection (Dkt.
8 #159) at 3; Robin Decl., Ex. A, at ¶ 22.

9 III. CONCLUSION

10 For the reasons stated herein, Defendants respectfully request that the Court 11 overrule the objections and grant final approval of the Second Amended Settlement 12 Agreement. Defendants further request any other relief that the Court deems 13 appropriate.

14 12. Published Notices, Internet Banners and Press Release. KCC's Legal Notification 15 Services Team has successfully implemented each element of the Court-approved Notice Plan, including 16 a schedule of paid notices in leading consumer magazines and on a variety of websites to reach the 17 Class. To fulfill the notice requirement of California's Consumer Legal Remedies Act ("CLRA"), the 18 notice program also included four placements, once a week for four consecutive weeks in the San Diego

12 13. The consumer publication effort alone reached approximately 53.9% of likely Class 13 members. Copies of the publication notices as they appeared are attached as Exhibit I.

14 14. To extend reach further, 95 million unique internet banner impressions targeted to adults 15 35 years of age or older were purchased to appear on a variety of websites. A total of 95,067,592 unique 16 impressions delivered from June 29, 2015 through August 2, 2015, resulting in an additional 67,592
 17 unique impressions at no extra charge. The internet effort alone reached approximately 58.9% of likely 18 Class members. Screenshots of the internet banner notices, as they appeared on various websites, are 19 attached as Exhibit J.

20 15. Additionally, 412,300 internet impressions targeted to adults 35 years of age or older 21 were purchased to appear on Google Search under keywords related to the settlement (e.g., arthritis 22 relief, arthritis remedies, arthritis supplements, glucosamine, glucosamine supplement, glucosamine

 3 additional 352 impressions at no extra charge. Screenshots of the Google search notices, as they 4 appeared, are attached as Exhibit K.

5 To fulfill the CLRA notice requirement, four eighth-page notices (approximately 3.96" x 7") appeared 6 once a week for four consecutive weeks within the classified section of the San Diego Union Tribune 7 Metro Distribution. The Notice appeared on the dates and pages indicated below. Copies of the 15 16. Combined, the media notice effort reached approximately 81.1% of likely Class 16 members. Coverage was further enhanced by the CLRA notice placements and the internet paid search 17 ads.

18 17. Interactive Voice Response. On June 25, 2015, KCC established an Interactive Voice 19 Response (the "IVR") system to be established (877-219-9780) to provide information about the 20 settlement and to record requests for Notice Packets. As of October 5 2015, 1,789 calls have been 21 received by the IVR.

22 18. Website. On June 25, 2015, KCC also established a website 23 (www.schiffglucosaminesettlement.com) dedicated to this settlement to provide additional information 24 to the Class Members and to answer frequently asked questions. Visitors to the website can download 25 the (1) Class Notice; (2) Claim Form; (3) Preliminary Approval Order; (4) Order re: Joint Motion for 26 Approval of Limited Modification to the Amended Settlement Agreement; and (5) Second Amended 27 Settlement Agreement and General Release. Visitors can also submit claims online and opt out online.
 28 As of October 5, 2015, the website has received 58,134 visits.

1           19.     Facebook. On June 25, 2015, KCC cause a Facebook page to be established to provide 2 information about the Settlement (https://www.facebook.com/pages/Lerma-v-Schiff-Nutrition-3 International-Inc-Class-Action-Settlement/825053464255918?ref=bookmarks).

4           20.     Requests for Exclusion. The deadline for Class Members to request to be excluded from 5 the class was a postmarked deadline of September 24, 2015. As of the date of this declaration, KCC has 6 received 7 requests for exclusion. A list of the Class Members requesting to be excluded is attached 7 hereto as Exhibit M.

8           21.     Claim Forms. As of the date of this declaration, 40,167 Claim Forms have been filed by 9 Class Members. This includes 910 Claim Forms that contain proof of purchase, for a potential dollar 10 value of $31,170.00, and 38,426 Claim Forms that do not contain proof of purchase, for a potential 11 dollar value of $431,583.00. Not all of the Claim Forms received by KCC have been processed, so these 12 counts are not 100% complete. In addition, there is some overlap between the two groups as Class 13 Members can make claims for purchases with and without proof of purchase. The deadline to submit a 14 Claim Form was September 24, 2015 and KCC will continue to process timely Claim Forms as they are 15 received.

16           22.     Claim Processing. When KCC receives a Claim Form, data entry is completed to capture 17 all relevant data. The data will be reviewed to determine the validity of each Claim Form. Once all of 18 the Claim Forms have been received and processed, KCC will provide a list of Valid Claims as well as 19 any claims that may have deficiencies to the parties. KCC will then confer with the parties regarding the 20 best manner to address deficient claims, which generally involves sending a Notice of Deficient Claim 21 Form to the Settlement Class Member, and allowing them a set period of time to cure their deficiency.
22 Only if the deficiency is not cured, will a claim be denied. Once the validity of Claim Forms has been 23 determined, KCC reviews all Claim Forms to ensure no duplicative Claim Forms are being paid. KCC 24 looks at various combinations of name and address to determine if any duplicative Claim Forms were 25 filed. Once all duplicative Claim Forms have been identified, KCC will conduct a final Claim Form 26 validation at which time KCC will report to all parties the count of valid and invalid Claim Forms.

27           23.     From the commencement of our administrative work through the end of August 2015, a 28 total of $856,736.13 has been incurred in expenses and staff hours performed by KCC. There is still a

1 fair amount of administrative work remaining (i.e. claims processing, distribution, post distribution
