

ANTI-CANCER PROPERTIES

Noni - an evergreen plant that grows in Malaysia, Australia and Polynesia. In the ancient Ayurvedic texts written in Sanskrit thousands of years ago, is mention about its healing properties. Noni is used to treat a variety of diseases in a variety of cultures, but have only recently been discovered biologically active ingredients, which are responsible for its healing effect.

Researchers in the past decade, confirms the legend of the Polynesians, that this plant has extraordinary healing power.

Scientists have found that noni juice inherent anti-bacterial, anti-inflammatory, analgesic, decongestant, antihypertensive and anti-cancer properties. This allows to use noni as a natural therapeutic agent for lowering blood pressure, reduce the swelling of the joints, suppression of internal and external infections, and even reduce congestion prevention of cancer.

Natural Cell Killers

Scientists believe that Noni activates the synthesis of one of the components of the immune system - natural cell killers. It is considered that these components are lethal for many foreign cells that has been recognized and destroyed by them, and the same thing is with the cells of cancer.

Cancer & Noni

Cancer usually isn't noticeable. Like hypertension, owned a nickname "the silent killer," cancer can be called "silent destroyer". Aggressive cancer cells implements without any symptoms, and usually wins and kills normal cells of their host. Typically, the process is detected when the cancer develops at full power.

While cancer nowadays has become a common disease worldwide, prevention and early diagnosis hasn't become a less difficult.

There are several different ways of using noni juice to fight cancer. The main goal - prevention of cancer, or maintenance of the organism while cancer are being treated.

You may want to use noni as an alternative method of cure when the official medicine is powerless or ineffective. Others seek to suppress side effects of the treatment and inhibit the growth of metastases using noni juice.

Researchers have found new ways to fight cancer. Popularity of herbal extracts usage are growing. For example, noni juice - it is used to fight various cancers. It all is plant biotherapy.

How can it help to fight against cancer

- Prophylaxis
As a natural food additives. In NONI is more than 175 natural compounds needed by the body. Part of them are anti-cancer.
- Secondary prophylaxis
it is, avoid cancer from metastasis and hold off growth of it by the same natural resources.
- NONI Juice can also be taken to fight against side effect from officially accepted methods of treatment, from which suffers many patients.
- Enhancing immunity.
Many forms of cancer destroys the immune system of the patient. Because many patients are using natural supplements to stimulate the immune processes. In this aspect noni juice is applied with success, which is also confirmed by the research of Dr. Anna Hiratsumi (Dr. Anne Hirazumi).
