Exfuzé is a revolutionary new health drink that combines seven of the most potent ingredients from all over the world in a single bottle. Each of the main ingredients was chosen for its high nutrition and antioxidant content and for other healthful properties it possesses. Mangosteen, for example, may be popular for its richness of nutrients, but it also lends its pleasant taste to Exfuzé. Studies also show this "super fruit" could help the body fight disease. Acai berries, the genus name of which comes from a muse in Greek mythology, were added to Exfuzé for their high amounts of dietary fiber, antioxidants, and omega-6 fatty acid. Rich in vitamins B and E and potassium, Acai berries are credited with helping to reduce blood cholesterol levels.

Fucoidan, a complex carbohydrate found in aquatic plants, has traditionally been used in Japan and Hawaii to protect against cancer, and is in every bottle of the super health drink, Exfuzé to help cleanse your body. Traditional Tibetan medicine has used Goji berries for two thousand years to improve the immune system, eyesight, circulation, and even fertility. The super health drink, Exfuzé uses Goji berries because they contain great amounts of iron and vitamins C and B2. Both Sea-buckthorn berries and Pomegranate juice give the super health drink, Exfuzé superior levels of vitamin C, but GAC fruit is perhaps one of the most impressive ingredients. This festive Vietnamese fruit, traditionally used to fight cancer, contains 70 times the lycopene found in tomatoes and 10 times the beta-carotene of carrots.

Aloe, widely known for its healing properties, is also included in the super health drink, Exfuzé recipe to help protect against heart disease and to lend its smoothness to the drink.

Exfuzé put its ear to the ground and heard ancient wisdoms singing the praises of all these ingredients that go into this health drink. The health benefits of each one alone are impressive. Just imagine the combined power they have now that they are brought together for your health in every bottle of the super health drink, Exfuzé that you will have.
