These days everyone is looking for a second source of income. The demographics of the typical American household has drastically changed in the past century. Households are avidly searching for sources to supplement their incomes or to just make ends meet. In doing so, the greatest challenge is time. Juggling family time, financial planning or budgeting, extracurricular activities and more, often becomes taxing for a couple; more so if they are raising a family. "Where will I find the time to dedicate time to an additional business?" That is the rhetorical, yet resounding question often heard from most struggling Americans.

The wake of the optimization of technology has made everyday life easier, and here is the great news, so has earning additional income. Sure, technology can help you pay bills, schedule appointments, keep contact with relatives, along with many other functionalities; but one of the best advantages in the advancement of technology is that you can use it to generate a second source of income with ease, and without investing much of your time. How great is that! You can now promote your second business by texting your friends, or even emailing them as you get ready for work.

With multiple sources that can lead to earning additional revenue, recent studies show that the Direct Selling industry falls under the top 12 hustles in America. Unlike any other, this is the market that allows you the freedom to earn extra income, without expending or committing full time. In Direct Selling, you have choices; such as scaling back from your full-time job, focusing on reducing personal debt, working on building your nest egg or saving for future investments. Either way, it is one of the top leading markets Americans are leaning towards for residual income.

If you are looking to save and earn more income, Team National is a great choice to help you accomplish just that. Marketing the program to your friends and families is a great way to get started. Earn more while you save more is the goal for our Team National members. Visit our website at bign.com!
